The San Francisco Scottish Fiddlers formed 36 years ago when small group of Bay Area friends gathered to play traditional and modern Scottish tunes together. As they attracted others into their circle, they decided to share their music in public concerts. These have grown into an annual event that brings their joyful enthusiasm to various venues in the greater Bay Area.

Current members are a mix of professionals and amateurs of all ages. Their one musical imperative, regardless of the tune or tradition, is never to be boring. They accomplish this without auditions or competition. They are an inclusive community that focuses on the joy of making music together.

The San Francisco Scottish Fiddlers have small groups that currently perform around the Bay Area farmers markets, fairs, and highland games. They were featured in the award-winning documentary, The Groove Is Not Trivial, (<http://www.thegroovemovie.com>) about Alasdair Fraser, their founder and music director. The film premiered at the 2016 Mill Valley Film Festival and won the Audience Choice Award. The San Francisco Scottish Fiddlers is an affiliate of The Scottish Fiddlers of California, a registered 501(c)3 organization, #95-4063752.
